

Yogi Bhajan introduction about The Invincible Woman
Women-In-Training Camp
June 28, 1983

"The subject we are discussing this summer is very beautiful, very authentic and very basic: the invincible woman--the woman who cannot be destroyed, come what may. She can give birth, she can create, but she cannot be destroyed.

Today, the entire society of the earth is based on woman. You can measure the strength of a nation from the face of the woman. You can measure the prosperity of a nation from the smile of the child. You can measure the power of a nation from its songs. These are three measuring principles."

Therefore, remember that God in His Grace wanted you to be nothing but a woman. A woman who cannot be understood by others shall be destroyed. When a woman is not understood by others to be a woman, then she is just a piece of furniture and a door mat be used and abused.

Please realize that we are starting on a journey. It is the journey of the beauty of God and it is the journey of the Invincible Woman. You have come to this camp just to go with me on that journey.

You can ask me when I went on it... I am a product of an invincible, beautiful, pure-character woman whom I used to call my mother. I am very grateful to God to have seen her very nearly and very dearly. God gave me wisdom to study her. I can feel her even now.

I am very fully aware about the invincible woman who can go through the ups and downs of life but still can be radiant, shining, graceful and convincing because she's invincible... I will be sharing all that with you this summer."
